Arlee Warriors

The Arlee Warriors are the basketball team of Arlee High School on the Flathead Indian Reservation in Western Montana. The Warriors play a variety of opponents, from other reservation schools to mostly-white private schools. The team, and the young players that constitute it, are at the center of Brothers on Three.

Manhattan-Christian Eagles

The basketball team of a private school located near Bozeman, Montana. The Eagles played the Arlee Warriors in three consecutive Class C championships from 2017 to 2019.

The Flathead Indian Reservation

Designated in 1855, The Flathead Indian Reservation is home to the Confederated Salish and Kootenai Tribes. The Arlee Warriors call this vast expanse of land surrounding the Flathead River and the southern part of Flathead Lake home.

Bitterroot Valley

The ancestral home of the Bitterroot Salish tribe, Montana's Bitterroot Valley is a river valley between the Bitterroot and Sapphire mountains that plays host to a variety of towns. The beauty of this place and its brutal history of dispossession are integral to Brothers on Three.

The Warrior Movement

The Warrior Movement, spearheaded by Arlee Warriors coach Zanen Pitts, sought to combat the disproportionate number of suicides in Arlee and surrounding areas. Members of the Arlee Warriors often appeared in suicide-prevention videos and travelled to speak about their experiences with mental health struggles.
